A cardiac contractility modulation device is a new treatment used in patients with heart failure. CCM therapy is associated with an increase in physical activity tolerance, improved quality of life, reduced hospitalizations due to heart failure, and reverse remodeling of the left ventricle in patients with systolic heart failure. In this case, the clinical benefit of ...

Revising blood pressure classification guidelines: A call for normal lower limits in the “American college of cardiology/American heart association task force on clinical practice guidelines for hypertension”

Published On: December 30, 2023 | Pages: 004 - 005

Author(s): Ersin Akpınar*

The existing blood pressure classification guidelines established by the American College of Cardiology/American Heart Association (ACC/AHA) and European Society of Cardiology/European Society of Hypertension (ESC/ESH) lack specified lower limits for the “Normal” category. This paper underscores the imperative need for revisiting these guidelines to incorporate define ...
