Involuntary Eye Watering During Micturition: A Case Report and Literature Review

Published On: December 02, 2025 | Pages: 011 - 012

Author(s): Carla Maden*, Panagiota Pouliou, Sarah Wilkinson and Wagih Aclimandos

An 11-year-old female presented complaining of bilateral eye watering during urination. An ocular and urinary system examination was normal. This phenomenon has been reported in 5 cases. Our review adds to the theory that this apparently rare phenomenon may be underreported and is more common than previously thought. ...

Multimodal Imaging in Gyrate Atrophy: Diagnostic Insights from Fundus Photography and Autofluorescence

Published On: August 05, 2025 | Pages: 009 - 010

Author(s): Vaishali Tomar*, Padma Chorol, Swarna Nishu, Shihana J Parveen and Aakanksha Raghuvanshi

A 22-year-old male presented with progressively worsening night vision and peripheral visual field constriction over the past few years. Notably, he reported that his younger sister exhibited similar symptoms, suggesting a hereditary pattern. Best-corrected visual acuity was markedly reduced to finger counting at two meters in both eyes. Intraocular pressures were wit ...
